MEXICAN FIGHT GOES TO FINISH—BISHOP DIAZ

Denies Catholics and Calles Agree.

Reports Conflict

Conflicting statements concerning the controversy between the Mexican government and the Roman Catholic church over the religious laws came from Mexico City last night.

The Tribune's correspondent sent a message from Bishop Diaz, secretary of the Mexican episcopate, declaring no agreement had been reached with President Calles and the fight would go on to a finish.

The Associated Press quotes a Catholic episcopate statement to the effect that President Calles has satisfied the episcopate that registration of priests is only for administrative purposes and the resumption of church services seems at hand.

The United News says the Mexican episcopate will frame a message to Pope Pius today asking permission for the priests to return to their churches.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Mexico City, Aug. 22.—(Special.)—An agreement was reached at the conference of Messrs. Pascual Diaz, bishop of Toluca, and Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz Flores with President Calles at Chapultepec castle yesterday.

Messrs. Diaz, secretary of the Catholic episcopate, said today: "Worship will not be resumed in the churches, the economic boycott will not be removed and the fight will go on to a finish along the lines already outlined by the episcopal council."

"Nothing took place toward settling the trouble except to clarify the attitude and allow the president and church to present their sides of the question. We obtained from the chief executive an exact statement of his position and what the church has to hope for in the way of concessions from the government."

"Hope practically is nil so far as expecting the government to make a move favorable to the church."

Describes Presidential Interview.
At the interview between the leaders of the government and church was conducted behind closed doors, with only the three named present, the rest of the happenings only could come either from Messrs. Diaz, Archbishop Ruiz or President Calles.

Archbishop Ruiz, a rather blunt man, blew into the conversation with the question: "What would it avail us to go to congress, which altogether is composed of your party, when they have been given the statement of your position?"

"Find the Legal Way."
President Calles replied: "Legal means exist to change the complexion of congress and it is the business of the Catholics to find them."

"Would you be willing to permit me to appear before congress to present fully the church side of the question, Mr. President?" questioned Archbishop Ruiz.

"Such a move would be against all laws, regulations and precedent," President Calles answered. However, it was stated that Bishop Diaz could be willing to allow in to undertake a similar campaign for the election of members favorable to our cause throughout the republic."

"What is prohibited by law, and I have no authority to change the law, and the law clearly states that Catholics in the name of Catholicism, cannot make propaganda," the president replied.

Bishop Calles repeated that he would change his philosophy and believe in which Messrs. Diaz replied: "All this report, Mr. President, is based on page 2, column 2."

THE CHANGING WORLD

In the early days of the movies, the screen "villain" made his characterization broadly obvious, so that no one could mistake his villainous purpose.

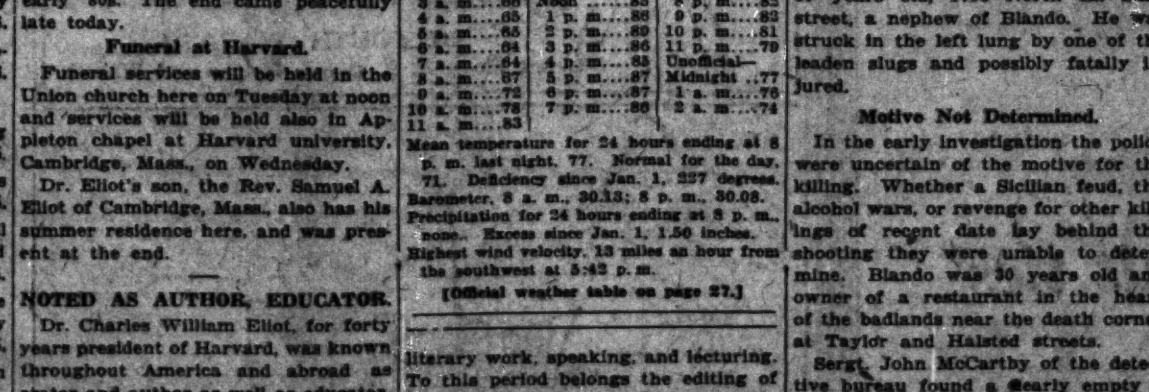

Today the art of pantomime has been perfected to marvelous subtlety, and the quick-witted movie fan can spot the villain by a mere flicker of an eye lid.

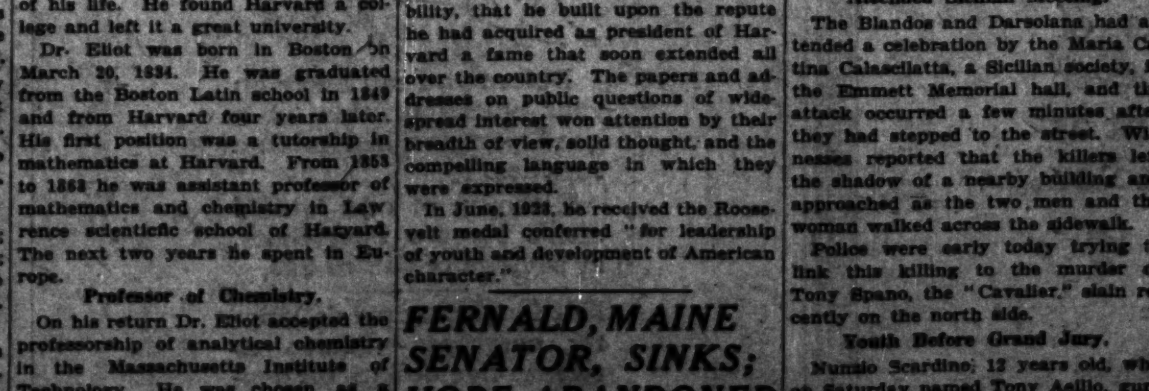

Before the era of the movies, boys got their biggest kick out of stirring books of adventure—

Today the boy finds the quick action movie, with its concentrated kicks, more attractive than books.

In bygone days, before the phonograph and the radio, children were kept busy at their music lessons—

Today, why study music when they can get the best music by winding up a crank or tuning in on a radio?

NEW SUBWAY PLAN OFFERED; PAY BY TAX

Another ray of hope for the relief of Chicago's straphangers, the second within a week, came yesterday with the report of the citizens' subway advisory commission, appointed by the council committee on local transportation.

Immediate construction of a $36,400,000 system of downtown transit tubes in State street and Washington and Jackson boulevards, financed largely through voluntary assessments of property owners is in brief the essence of the report, which will be formally presented to the committee this morning.

Coming on the eve of a series of conferences between the city and heads of the surface and elevated lines, the first set for Tuesday, the report is seen by officials as of significance, especially the assessment feature, which wipes out the biggest financial obstacle to the loop subway plan.

Way Paved for Action.
The downtown traction problem, in fact, is practically solved.

Ald. Arthur F. Albert (1st), chairman of the transportation subcommittee, who named the commission. "The way is paved and it is now simply a matter of how fast the council, the traction heads, and the legislature can get together and make the plan a reality."

The commission, which has been working since March 1st, is headed by Russell Tyson of Aldis & Co., with Gordon Strong of Gordon Strong & Co. as vice chairman, and George M. Tob as secretary. Each of the three served in a corresponding capacity on the Building Managers' association committee on transportation.

Other members of the commission are Eddie Shultz, manager of the Edison and Chicago Trust buildings and president of the association; Ernest J. Stevens, manager of the Hotel Stevens and La Salle; Barney Balaban, president of the Balaban & Katz theaters; Harry J. Powers, Illinois and Blackstone theaters, and Elmer T. Stevens of Charles A. Stevens & Bros. and chairman of the street traffic committee of the Association of Commerce.

Summary of Proposal.
Summarized, the subway system proposed in the report is as follows:

1. A high level tube for rapid transit trains going underground at Chicago avenue and Franklin street, extending east to State street and thence south to Roosevelt road. Randolph to 9th street, 4 tracks; elsewhere, 2 tracks. Cost, $23,950,000.

2. A low level tube for trolley cars, going underground at Washington boulevard and Clinton street, extending east to Washington to Michigan avenue, south to Jackson boulevard, west to Franklin, thence 5 blocks on Franklin to the Van Buren street tunnel, ending at the west portal of the tunnel. Two tracks. Cost, $12,450,000.

How Money Would Be Paid.
The special assessments, it is proposed, will be levied according to the zones benefiting most, zone 1, the property adjacent to the junctions of the systems, including the heart of the State street department store district, paying 45 per cent, or roughly $6,500,000; zone 2, the property bordering the end of the Washington-State-Jackson horseshoe tube, 20 per cent, or $2,000,000; zone 3, other parts of the loop proper, 15 per cent, or $1,725,000; and zone 4, the districts adjacent to the State street tube north and south of the loop, 10 per cent, or $1,000,000.

In addition to these two primary considerations—where the subways are to be dug and who shall pay for them—the report also sets out with detail into the history, legal aspects, proposed legislation, referendum, and other phases of the traction problem. It is illustrated with numerous plans, maps, and surveys.

Plan Three "L" Extensions.
Three immediate extensions of the present elevated lines are recommended, two of them on Ashland avenue. The first would extend south from 15th street station of the Douglas park line to the end of the Englewood branch, linking with the Rockford park line. The second would connect the Division street station of the Rockford park line with the Addison street station of the Hammond line, thus completing a continuous elevated structure.

Assassins Kill Cafe Owner in Automobile

Two armed men walked deliberately up to the automobile of Michael Blain, 1021 South Halsted street, at Ogden avenue and Taylor street last night, took careful aim and poured into his body a fusillade of bullets that killed him.

With Blain on the front seat was his wife. She was unhurt. In the rear of the car was Joseph Darso, 19 years old, 1704 North La Salle street, a nephew of Blain. He was struck in the left lung by one of the head shots and possibly fatally injured.

Motive Not Determined.
In the early investigation the police were uncertain of the motive for the killing. Whether a Sicilian feud, the alcohol wars, or revenge for other killings of recent days lay behind the shooting, they were unable to determine.

Blain was 30 years old and owner of a restaurant in the heart of the badlands near the death corner at Taylor and Halsted streets.

Sgt. John McCarthy of the detective bureau found a nearly empty 5 gallon can of alcohol in the roadway behind the Blain car. The significance of this is being investigated.

Attended Sicilian Meeting.
The Blain and Darso families had attended a celebration by the Maria Catina Calasactis, a Sicilian society, in the Emmett Memorial hall, and the attack occurred a few minutes after they had stepped to the street. Witnesses reported that the killers left the shadow of a nearby building and approached as the two men and the woman walked across the sidewalk.

Police were early today trying to link this killing to the murder of Tony Spano, the "Cavaliere," slain recently on the north side.

Youth Before Grand Jury.
Nunzio Scardino, 15 years old, who on Saturday named Tony Adello, gun man of the north side Little Sicily, as the slayer of Antonio Spano, "The Cavaliere," is expected to repeat his story today at the Cook county grand jury.

Blain and his father, John Scardino, owner of a barber shop at 434 West Division street, in front of which the murder occurred, are being held under close police surveillance. Blain is held incommunicado at the Juvenile Detention home, and his father at an outlying police station.

Raiders Trap Gangsters in Wisconsin Lair

In a sylvan retreat on Half Moon lake, near Tomahawk, Wis., where in the role of a wealthy sportsman he fished and hunted by day, and frolicked with gay women in liquor parties by night, Polack Joe Saltis, chief of the south side beer gangsters and indicted gang killer, was captured yesterday by Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker and a picked force of his men.

Saltis was the prize—the fox of the hunt—but there was other precious police game lagged in what is hailed the finest bit of crook trailing done in many a Chicago day.

Joe's Three Pals Also Seized.
Three of Polack Joe's guests—one of them under indictment with him for the murder two weeks ago of John "Mittie" Foley, a rival beer trafficker—were the other trophies of the day. And so quickly was it done that not a shot was fired, although Chief Schoemaker's force was armed with machine guns, shotguns, tear gas, and revolvers, and Saltis and his three companions had a brace of pistols apiece and two long rifles.

The other three captives, who with Saltis waited extradition and were taken, heavily shackled, aboard a train arriving in Chicago at 3 o'clock this morning, are these:

Frank "Lefty" Kennel, machine gunner of the Saltis-Moffitts gang, now facing trial with his chief for the Foley murder, for which the state will demand hanging penalties.

Peter Kasloff, better known as "Three Fingers Pete," sent to prison many times for safe blowing, robbery and burglary, an old timer who two years ago, while in the Joliet penitentiary, was paroled to live a free man.

Nick Kramer, under cover man and bodyguard for Saltis.

Saltis was the last of the four to be caught, Kennel and Kramer having been taken in an exciting encounter before crowds on the main street of Tomahawk, and Kasloff being captured just outside Saltis' refuge.

Drama in Sylvan Setting.
It was a strange setting in which the drama of the taking of Saltis was enacted.

High Sunday noon, and the sun was beating down through a clear blue sky down into the dense foliage which shielded Saltis' cottage from view, even from the lake side. Fishermen's boats dotted the surface of Half Moon lake, a favored summer pleasure spot, and the cheerful voices of children bathing nearby carried easily to the dozen officers as they crept, guns leveled and nerves tense, nearer and nearer to the cottage.

Three Fingers Pete was standing on the porch when Chief Schoemaker and his men burst simultaneously through the shrubbery.

"Stick 'em up and keep 'em up!" cried Lieut. Charles Egan, in the lead with ready machine gun. Pete was quick to obey, holding him, Egan and Schoemaker pressed quickly inside the cottage, with the son of Blown's body as a shield, and in the first bedroom as they entered they saw Polack Joe lying on the bed.

Chief Shows Death Warning.
The gangster had been aroused by the shout and the shuffle of feet, and just as Chief Schoemaker reached the threshold of the bed chamber, Saltis' hand was reaching beneath his pillow.

"Don't, Joe!" Schoemaker shouted. "If you touch that I'll kill you!"

Slowly the hand came back, and with its mate, went upwards.

"All right," he said. "I guess you've got me."

LIFE HANGS IN BALANCE; STAR FIGHTS GAMELY

Outcome Question of Few Hours.
New York, Aug. 23.—(Special.)—At 1:45 o'clock this (Monday) morning this statement was issued at the Polyclinic hospital:

"Mr. Valentino's condition remains unchanged. He has been sleeping for several hours."

The sleep, it was said, was partly a natural sleep and partly due to drugs. The attending physicians had retired for the night at this hour. They spent the night in a room adjoining the film star.

New York, Aug. 22.—(Special.)—The condition of Rudolph Valentino, motion picture star, grew more critical today and the three doctors who have been attending him at the Polyclinic hospital since he underwent a double operation for acute appendicitis and gastric ulcers, called in a fourth.

Valentino, fighting gamely for his life, shut death from his mind, and asked about friends, talked of making a trip to Maine, and told how bored he was having to lie abed.

His doctors, realizing that he was rapidly approaching a second crisis due to development of pleurisy in his left chest on Saturday, called into consultation one of New York's most skilled surgeons, Dr. Eugene H. Fox, surgeon of New York hospital.

Wait for Second Crisis.
They told the consulting surgeon that the next few hours would determine whether the film star would respond to saline injections which they had resumed, or would take a sharp turn for the worse.

In view of the approaching crisis, Valentino's doctors remained at his bedside through the night, as they had done through the entire day. Belief that he would pass through his second crisis in the morning was expressed by Doctors Paul E. Durhan, Harold D. Meeker and G. Randolph Manning.

The information from the sick room, as relayed from the doctors by G. George Ullman, manager for Valentino, showed that pleurisy, which had developed in the left lung over Saturday day, had continued to spread, while the patient's temperature, pulse and respiration continued to improve. At 4:30 p. m. the chart for Valentino showed that his temperature was 104, his pulse 120 and respiration 30.

Those permitted to see the actor said he did not seem to realize how low he was. When Valentino's condition became more grave, word was sent to Joseph M. Schenck, head of United Artists, which has Valentino under contract.

Mr. Schenck and his wife, Norma Talmadge, hurried by motor from the home of Adolph Zukor at New York City.

Schenck Visits Star.
When they arrived at the Polyclinic hospital Mr. Schenck was admitted to the sick room, but Miss Talmadge was not. Miss Talmadge, interviewed as she was departing from the hospital, said Valentino was very low, she said.

"Mr. Schenck saw him this afternoon and his condition was quite critical. He was very low. In fact, that is why they let Mr. Schenck see him. They want for Dr. Fox to see if there was anything he could do."

According to Miss Talmadge, Valentino recognized Mr. Schenck as soon as the latter entered the sick room. She described the meeting as follows:

"He greeted Mr. Schenck and asked him how I was, and also inquired about my dinner. (Continued on page 2, column 2.)

Talks of Proposed Trip.
Mr. Ullman, according to the meeting between Valentino and Mr. Schenck, told how the actor had greeted Mr. Schenck with a pleasant, "Hello, how are you?"

"I was a pretty sick man last week, and then expressed eagerness to take a trip to Maine, which had been planned for his last week."

Friends and admirers continued to stand by Valentino, until dawn and, though enough room to "bitch" them near the patient, so they were backed outside his door and nearly choked the hall way.

Mr. Schenck returned to the hospital early this afternoon and said it was his intention to remain near the actor's bedside all night.

To combat the toxic condition in the actor's system, the doctors again started giving him saline injections in the morning for the first time since the attack immediately following the operation. The doctors did not leave their usual 9:30 a. m. bulletin because they were occupied with the patient. At 11 a. m. they gave out the following bulletin:

"Mr. Valentino's condition is considered critical. There has been a slight extension of the process in the left chest. It is impossible to determine the ultimate outcome at the present time. Temperature 104, pulse 134, respiration 30."

Rebels Condemned.
Mr. Ullman explained that Valentino was conscious, and that he did not seem to realize the seriousness of his condition.

"He expressed little complaint of pain," said Mr. Ullman, "and is so optimistic about his condition that he said to me 'I think we can begin to see people by tomorrow.' I replied of course."

Announcement that Valentino's condition was very grave was broadcast tonight by radio by Maj. Edward Brown, vice president of Metro-Goldwyn Pictures. Maj. Brown asked the radio public to hold an encouraging thought for the stricken actor.

REPORT OPENS WAY TO SUBWAY BY ASSESSMENT

$36,400,000 Tube System Proposed for Loop.

on Ashland avenue from Wilson avenue to 43d street parallel to the present Evanston-Jackson park line.

The third extension would extend on Wells street south from the south-west corner of the loop to Polk street, and thence east on Polk to the present south side line. This, the report says, would be a minor unit but important to the entire system.

Five Problems Solved.

By means of the new subways and "L" extensions, the commission believes, the five major transportation problems of the downtown district will be solved. They are summarized as follows:

Problem 1. By passing northwest and southwest rapid transit trains. Solution—Ashland avenue "L" extension.

Problem 2. Through routing north and south rapid transit trains. Solution—Wells and Polk street "L" extension and State street subway.

Problem 3. Looping west side rapid transit trains. Solution—Present "L" loop structure.

Problem 4. Through routing north and south trolley cars. Solution—Present surface line tracks.

Problem 5. Looping west side trolley cars. Solution—Washington-Michigan-Jackson subway.

Only Plans for Beginning.

"The plans herewith proposed are for initial construction only," says the report. "After this initial period of construction, there will be a second and a third, and still others so long as Chicago lives and grows."

Entering into the details of the State street subway, the report points out that two of the tracks of the present "L" would grade down into the tube at the extreme north end. The remaining two would continue south to the loop structure. Through trains to the south side, including passengers transferring to the west side, would use the west leg of the loop structure.

The underground tracks would grade up again to the surface at Roosevelt road and there join the south side "L" structure. Over the four-track section between Randolph and Polk streets, the express and local trains would be separately tracked, whereas they would follow one another over the two track sections. Emerging at either end they would be separated and start on their express and local schedules.

Speed in Transferring.

An outstanding feature of the four-track section would be a "mezzanine" level for pedestrians, above the train level and below the street level. Its purpose would be to facilitate the transfer of passengers from local to express trains and for their general circulation.

The plans call for three stations along the four track section, each one a block long. They would be located between Randolph and Washington, Adams and Jackson, and 7th and Polk streets. By use of the "mezzanine" level passengers, instead of pouring into the stations at congested stairways, could filter down through the "mezzanine" level, entering by 70 or 80 separate passageways.

Stations on the Washington-Michigan-Jackson tunnel would be located on Washington between Wells and La Salle, Clark and Dearborn, and at Washington on Michigan at Madison and at Adams on Jackson at Wabash, between Dearborn and Clark, and between La Salle and Wells. At each station would be an escalator to the surface.

One complete chapter of the report is devoted to the urgency of a state constitutional amendment to change its present terms which now defer all improvements which are but 45 per cent or less local in their benefits from being financed in any part by special assessment. At present an improvement must prove itself 51 per cent local in its benefits to make special assessment enforceable.

"Your advisory commission has given careful and prolonged consideration to this serious and embarrassing situation," the report says. "We have considered every method of avoidance possible, and we have found but one method which gives reasonable expectation of success."

Want Plans Completed.
The first step in that method, says the report, should be to complete plans and specifications for the subway. The next step would be for the board of local improvements to institute a local improvement proceeding, spreading a special assessment of 51 per cent or over, the exact amount to be left to the city council.

Then, as it is "utterly certain that many, if not most, and perhaps all of the property owners will file objections, and there lay a .45 caliber revolver, cocked and ready for action.

Saltis went with the detectives to the living room. There his pale blue eyes, set in his heavy, bearded face, darted quickly to the doors and the windows. At each he saw one or more policemen, each with a weapon aimed toward him. Then, and only then, did he settle discomfitedly in a chair.

How Coup Was Flashed.

Chief Schoemaker, in planning his coup, assigned to enter the back door, with himself, Lieut. Egan, and Sergeant Thomas Burke, Thomas Connelley, James Sweeney, Michael Lavelle and Edward E. Truesler. At the front were Lieut. Ed Birmingham, Sgt. John R. Meyer, an expert machine gun operator, and Sheriff Otto Reide of Lincoln county, Wis. Sheriff Reide's four deputies advanced from the side. Egan and Meyer carried machine guns, while Birmingham and Burke tested grenades. All the others had revolvers. Saltis had one grim rejoinder.

"You're lucky you didn't come last night," he addressed Schoemaker. "We had a crowd here, men and women, and we had plenty of liquor, and there sure would've been shooting if you had shown up."

To all questions touching on the murder of Foley, Saltis had one reply, and that was: "I don't know anything about it."

A barrel of good beer was on tap in the cottage and at least fifty empty whisky bottles were strewn about, relics of the party of the night before.

Crowds See First Capture.

Crowds in Tomahawk for the log rolling contests on the Wisconsin rapids witnessed the capture of Konold and Kramer. Chief Schoemaker and Lieut. Egan and Birmingham were inside the village inn, making ready for their trip to Saltis' cottage.

A large sedan rolled up in front of the inn, and Lieut. Egan, springing it, said: "That looks like a hoodlum bus now."

Drawing his revolver, Lieut. Egan ran from the inn, followed closely by Schoemaker and Birmingham. As Egan leaped for the automobile, he recognized Lefty Konold in the driver's seat, and as Konold reached for his revolver, the lieutenant lifted his own and brought it down on the gangster's skull.

Meanwhile Chief Schoemaker had reached into the rear of the car and grabbed Kramer, beside whom on the seat was a loaded .45 automatic pistol. Both Kramer and Konold were then placed in the custody of Lieut. Joseph Roman and Sgt. Charles McHane, who took them to the Lincoln county jail in Merrill.

Schoemaker and his forces then commandeered the gangster's automobile, which it was later discovered belonged to Saltis, and used it on the trip to the cottage on Half Moon lake.

Two Cops Discover Gang.

A secret tip coming to Chief Schoemaker at the detective bureau had it that Saltis and his pals were hiding at the lake, and the detective chief assigned Patrolmen James Sweeney and Joseph Burbank to go to Wisconsin. Under Schoemaker's orders, the two patrolmen reconnoitered about the lake. At last their search was rewarded, their attention being called to Saltis because of nightly trips made by the gangster's car to the village.

A checkup of the license on the auto disclosed it was issued to Saltis' wife and when this information was telegraphed to Schoemaker on Friday he started at once. Meanwhile Sweeney and Burbank spent two nights in the vicinity of Saltis' cottage, and both times they saw cars stop at the place, unloading groups of men and women for all night parties.

Saltis first came to the cottage on July 8, staying about three weeks off and on, the neighbors told the police. About July 23 he left and was gone until the early morning of Aug. 8. Foley, the police pointed out, was killed on Aug. 4. Saltis' car was burned late that night, and Chief Schoemaker said Saltis undoubtedly started out immediately afterwards, his wife's automobile.

GIRL ACCUSES POLICEMAN OF ATTACKING HER

Threatened Life with Gun;
Youth Put in Cell.

Drawing his police pistol, Robert W. Dehlinger, 23 years old, 5218 Oconto avenue, a relief traffic officer for the county highway police, forced a young woman from an automobile in Milwaukee and compelled her, under threats of death, to submit to his assault, according to an official report yesterday of the Irving Park police.

After the policeman attacked her he held the gun upon her while another man, his companion, did the same. Such was the story of the girl, who is 20 years old, when she stumbled, sobbing, into the police station.

Another Girl Battles Menace.

The crime came as a climax to two weeks of repeated outrages, against girls and women by men in which all the city's policemen and the county force were given special orders to curb the growing menace.

Still another case occurred last night when a 17-year-old girl was saved from two attackers by her wild shrieks and her determined resistance.

Saturday evening the young woman of the Niles case went to the Natoma dance hall at 4510 Milwaukee avenue with a girl friend. She had gone there often, and was usually taken home by a youth she knew as "Ed," the girl's story went.

She danced with Ed, and with Dehlinger, who became enamored of her and offered to take her home. She declined, and when midnight neared, started off with Ed in his automobile.

Policeman Leaps in Car.

They had gone only a short distance when Dehlinger and another man, whom she had not seen before, jumped into the car. Then Ed turned it around, and drove to Niles, driving up a quiet road.

Dehlinger then turned to Ed and told him to "do his stuff," the girl said. And she told how while the two men stood by, Ed had attempted to attack her, but had lost courage when she fought him, and wept and screamed.

"The policeman pulled me up to the car and tried to attack me, and when I screamed louder, he drew his revolver and said: 'I'll kill you if you don't shut up!'"

Both Attack Girl.

Then both the policeman and his companion attacked the young woman. Afterward they drove her to Milwaukee and Gale avenues and dropped her out of the car. She saw a policeman, who hailed a passing automobile and took her to the Irving Park station, where she told her story.

A motor squad from the detective bureau was sent after Dehlinger, and arrested him in his home. He was taken first to the Irving Park station, where he is reported to have admitted the truth of the young woman's charges, and then was lodged in the lockup of his own department, the county highway police headquarters at Morton Grove.

Two men who attempted to attack a 17-year-old girl in an alleyway near her home early yesterday, were later arrested. They had been recognized by a pedestrian who had been attracted by the girl's screams.

Screams Bring Aid to Girl.

The youths, who are said by the police to have confessed when confronted by their intended victim, are Alex Kasker, 13 years old, and Roman Sadowsky, 20 years old, 1231 North Hoyne avenue. They seized the girl as she was returning from a loop the other and attempted to drag her into the alleyway.

CALL DEATH FEAR BRAKE ON CRIME IN AUSTRALIA

Severe Penalty for Rape Inflicted.
BY JACK MYERS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 22.—Fighting for any crime has been practically unknown in Australia in recent years. For many years every state of the commonwealth has provided the death penalty for the crime of rape, but the penalty seldom is inflicted.

Labor governments are in power in most of the states in Australia and they do not favor capital punishment. When labor assumed power in Queensland, it wiped out capital punishment altogether and for the last twenty years every capital crime has been dealt with by imprisonment, sentences up to fifteen years being given for rape. In New South Wales, although a labor government is in power, the death penalty for rape still remains on the statute book, while whiplashing is provided for attempted rape and guarding for robbery under arms.

No prisoner has been whipped in this state for more than a quarter of a century. Four years ago a youth was sentenced at Bathurst, a country town, to be flogged for rape, but the labor government reduced the sentence to a long term of imprisonment.

In Victoria rape is punishable by death and last Friday a youth was sentenced to die for committing this crime, though it is not likely that the sentence will be carried out. Criminals were flogged in Victoria for rape, but the outcry of the public against this "barbaric" punishment led to its demise.

In all other states, the death penalty is provided for in rape cases in the crime act, but it is never carried out. Crime statistics in Australia show that rape is not increasing in any state. Criminologists hold the opinion that fear of the death penalty is responsible for this state of affairs.

They're Ready!

—the New Fall Clothes

by Society Brand

Dunlin

The college cut for Fall. A new version of the easy informal style—and it's college through and through! Full coat, high notch lapels, 3 buttons. Trousers wide.

Harvard

The new double breasted. As distinguished a style as a man can wear when the cut is correct. Here it is, done as only Society Brand can do it. To perfection.

Regent

A new Fall version of the "wedge" cut. Note the broad shoulders and the decided tapering toward the waist—a very vigorous effect, emphasized by the peak lapels.

Cornell

The somewhat conservative suit—a great favorite with young men at college or in business. Observe the easy lines, the athletic shoulders, the whole distinctive effect. Trousers moderately wide.

New Haven

You'll see this style worn by a gentleman young man this Fall. It's a new version of the college idea. A loose cut, with three buttons, only one of which are to be buttoned. The lapels roll slightly inward over those of the Dunlin.

Here are the new ideas. The styles that well dressed men are going to wear this Fall. We don't remember any season when the new things were so interesting—or so good to look at. Society Brand has never given us more distinctive models. You'll like them all. And since they're Society Brand, any one you choose will be correct.

PIPING ROCKS in new Fall Grays

This season you'll probably see more grays than any other color. Here's the exclusive Society Brand fabric that men liked so well last season—brought out in just the grays that are wanted for Fall. Cambridge gray, fog gray, Oxford. Also some wonderful two-tone grays, and smoke-line stripe effects—entirely new. When we say the quality and fine silky texture are the same as last year—you'll know they can't be beat, anywhere. Ask to take a look at Piping Rocks in these new Fall models.

$50

N.B. It goes without saying that you can buy these Fall suits on the Lytton Budget Plan. A small payment at the moment—the balance over ten weeks. Very convenient.

TRAPPIST RITES UNFOLD AGE-OLD CHURCH HISTORY

Iowa Monastery Is Seat of Ancient Order.

Members of Chicago's oldest and largest religious community, the Trappists, have sent the Tribune numerous requests for information about the strange life and background of the Trappists who work, pray, and sing "Requiem Masses" at New Melleray, Ia., a monastery described in last Friday's Tribune. So, in this twenty-fifth chapter of our Chicagoan pilgrimage, these facts are given.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

The Trappist service which the members of silence now began seemed to some sort antiphonal to the evening song of the birds outside. And was it not? Was it God's good-night to the silent prayers of the beauty of His world?

"Will harm no man of any creed, or race, to think so."

But far away were many of the birds. The windows of the chapel stood open and the birds, lured from the monastery gardens and woodland by the music of the organ and the soft murmur of voices—which always pique and soothe them—twittered confidences and comment to one another on the yellow ledges, and there perked and pruned while the holy men prayed and sang. Almost you could have touched them—these trustful neighbors of the brothers of silence.

As a non-Catholic I could follow the service but lamely, and I suppose its value for me lay rather in its poetry than in its piety. But stay! Is not great poetry a pious thing, fraught with blessing and with inspiration for even the pagan heart?

A Historic Record.

Of all the things that this vespers service of the Trappists on the Iowa countryside may do for the pilgrim from "the worldly world," as the monks would say, the most arresting thing it does is its potent touching of history to life.

In colors most radiant it visualizes, and in music most haunting and peculiar it echoes, one of the strangest stories in the annals of Christendom—the story now seven centuries old of the rise, the decline, the reformation and the burgeoning anew of the ancient Trappist branch of the Cistercian order of monks.

For an hour it brought close, very close, to me remote times and places and to have in upon the mind the mighty continuity of Roman Catholic chronology.

The music, so I was told, was purely Gregorian. It was sung from thick, slow, highly ornamented and heavily laced with metal, which rested between the monks on prie-dieu. When for an evening of glorious opera the better plan is to telephone the family to meet you in Henrici's for early dinner, that you may avoid the hurry of dining at home on opera night—and so arrive at Ravinia in good season and good humor. Why not tonight?

And when you go to Ravinia

COUNTESS HERE

Countess Ellen Douglas, daughter of the former Swedish minister of foreign affairs, who was guest of the Blackstone hotel.

the worshippers opened or closed the huge volumes, which are imported to New Melleray from Belgium, the sound was almost like the clatter arms make when they are stacked. That sound, and the chirping of the birds on the window ledges, and the slow, loud tickings of a clock, and the rustle of robes now kneeling, now rising, were the only sounds that broke upon the music and the intoning.

Lately, or clergy, we were solely a congregation of men. The womenfolk among the pilgrims to New Melleray had been admitted to the outer lawns and gardens of the Trappist domain, but at the gate which opens on the inner area they were asked to wait when the vespers bell began to ring.

The rule of asceticism is strict, but I have read how once at the Trappist monastery of Our Lady of the Snows, among the hills of Gévaudan, a mother was permitted, as a very special grace, to enter the chapel that she might behold the consecration of her son as an abbot—mixed abbot, too!

That was in our time. The incident—for the mother surely not less than an episode—brings us to the strange tale of Trappist vicissitudes and Trappist triumphs.

For know you that this order, whose name is a synonym for austerity, owes its rehabilitation to heartbreak that came of woman loved and woman lost. This order, moving with finger on lip through corridors placarded with the word Silence, is now so strict because it was once so loose. The early phase and the later phases of its existence illustrate one of the most curious things backward from one extreme to another to be found in the records of man's moral variances. In short, within a matter of less than a century, the Trappist church—the monks of La Trappe have run the gamut from dissolute brigandage to pure asceticism.

Piety and Warfare.

Count Retroux the Second, of Perche, in France, founded the original Trappist monastery in the year 1140. That first seat of the Trappists was the abbey of Notre Dame de Malson Dieu de la Trappe at Soligny la Trappe. This little Norman town of Soligny got La Trappe tacked on to its name because it is approached through a narrow gorge which, in those days of hand-to-hand fighting, was variously a trap for armed men coming with hostile purpose against Soligny's people.

In less than a decade after their establishment the monks of La Trappe became celebrated for their piety, and St. Bernard, patron of our Knights Templar, was good friend to them.

Then followed generations of incessant warfare, now flaming forward and now ebbing between the French and the English in Normandy, with sole result to the Trappists that, whichever side was winning, they were pretty sure to be pillaged and dispersed.

Discouragement bred dissoluteness. Thus, two centuries and a half after their foundation, the Trappists were only a handful, and that handful a scandal to France. No morals, no discipline among them, they were called "the brigands of La Trappe."

From bad to worse matters went for decades. Suddenly, in 1664, came dramatic change. Armand Jean le Bouthillier de Rancon, the man with heart broken for woman loved and lost, appeared upon the scene. And he is the most amazing instance of Trappist tipping backward from "the life" as it was lived by a madman, a young courtier of high birth in the early years of the reign of Louis the Fourteenth to the life which our austere Trappist neighbors in Chicago are living today at New Melleray, Ia.

For Abbot Rancon, pulling himself together after the shock of the death of his mistress, the duchess of Rohan-Montbazon, likewise pulled the "brigands of La Trappe" together, and gave them such a moral purging that there has been no guile in the soul of the Trappist order from that time to this. He sharpened their rules and reformed himself. He gave away all his great fortune. He converted the scandalous ecclesiastical structure he had held into pious practicalities, and he made his grieving for the loss of his love the source of service and of austerities that to this day are performed, day and night, by Trappist monks in Trappist monasteries from the valley of the Nile to the valley of the Mississippi, and from the hills of China to the forests of Canada.

Many Roads to Heaven.

Now, what does it all come to?—Philosopher Thoreau's favorite question.

"There are many roads to heaven," great Frederick replied to a little courtier who, having changed his religion, wrote a fawning letter in explanation—"there are many roads to heaven," dear Count," replied the king—and added, "Bon voyage!"

The monks at New Melleray have chosen certainly not the easiest road, but one far from dissolute.

They work hard—but so do you if your life justifies the boon of life. They pray hard—but the archbishop of Baltimore, in one of the noble sermons of the Eucharistic congress called prayer "the pioneering of the soul." Their rule against "worldly conversation" not against necessary conversation, is very rigorous—but it gets them away from an unwholesome lot of gab. They fast long and often—but if that is a practice of superstition 'tis a practice that stands pure and seems to be the very essence of piety. They dig each his own grave—but most of us do that with implements more noxious than the spade. And when they die they are laid in the warm soil in the rough habiliments of their silent, toilsome days—but their tired bodies are not lumbered with the wasteful vulgarities of plush "casuals"—good old word coffin being long since banned—and silver plated handles, and suchlike mortuary gimmicks, and they go uncluttered into the earth that nourished them.

Food for Fasting.

There is naught wiser about that program of existence, but a world that loves the uncanny loves to imagine the uncanny about the Trappists.

You know and have to listen to—for your sins no doubt—some grained persons who speak of rites like the incessant services of the Trappists as "mere mummery," but to you, when you sit at prayer with the brothers of silence, their services will mean more. They will mean the turning amid sunlight and song of many a storied and philosophic page from doubting Gideon to believing Newman, with patient, judicial Von Ranke, calm historian of these matters standing between and saying to you, as any he does in an early chapter of his greatest book, these words:

"Easily does life veil its own incongruities as they pass, but no sooner do men set themselves to ponder, examine, and compare than at once they become fully apparent to all."

And as I walked the groves of healing silence that diffused blessing and balm to weary hearts it was to me as if in a clamorous world, for a little breathing time, life stood still with finger laid on lip—pondering, pondering, pondering.

GEN. SUMMERALL PROBABLE CHOICE TO HEAD STAFF

Ely Also Is Mentioned as Hines' Successor.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—(Special.)—With the selection of a chief of staff for the army to succeed Maj. Gen. John L. Hines to be made within the next few weeks, army opinion as to the likely choice has narrowed to the names of two officers, Maj. Gen. Charles F. Summerall, senior general officer in the army, and Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commander of the army war college.

One of these officers, high ranking officials in the war department assert, is certain to be named to replace Gen. Hines when the latter's term of office expires in December. At the present time the preponderance of opinion favors Gen. Summerall because of his seniority, his remarkable war record in France and the fact that he is the best of the generals in the service who commanded an army corps during the great war.

A dozen major generals, all eligible for the appointment, were in the running a few months ago, but at the present time none of them is given anything but an outside chance.

Others Are Favored.

Should both Summerall and Ely be passed over by President Coolidge and Secretary of War Davis, then, officials believe, the most likely candidates would be Maj. Gen. William L. B. Lyster, reported to be one of the army's best diplomats; Maj. Gen. Fox Conner, the present deputy chief of staff, and Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the youngest and one of the most capable general officers in the army.

While Secretary of War Davis has been studying the qualifications of the various candidates for several weeks, he will not make a selection until he has had an opportunity to confer with President Coolidge when the latter returns to Washington from the summer White House in the Adriatic.

Tension has been high in the army for several weeks over the question whether Summerall or Ely is the best qualified for the position.

Strict Discipline.

Opposition has developed against Gen. Summerall because of his reputation in some quarters as a martinet and his record as one of the hardest task masters and strictest disciplinarians in the army. Some officers in the air corps are inclined to feel that because of his quarrel with William Mitchell, former assistant air chief, Gen. Summerall might not be as friendly to the air service as they would like. Other air officers, however, prefer him to Gen. Ely.

Ely Infantry Officer.

Gen. Summerall has been called the greatest leader of troops developed during the war. Officers who served under him said that before a battle he would mount a horse, enter a hollow square, tell his soldiers squarely what he was getting them into and that they must and would take their objective.

Gen. Ely is an infantry officer. He was graduated from the Military Academy in 1881, is a graduate of the infantry and cavalry schools, the staff college, and the army war college. During the war he distinguished himself by commanding the 24th infantry, first division, when it captured Cantigny, commanded the 3rd brigade, second division, at Soissons, St. Mihiel and Mont Blanc and later commanded the 7th division as major general in the Argonne.

SHOT IN QUARREL WITH HIS WIFE'S FORMER HUSBAND

John O'Neill, 36, a chauffeur living at 2102 West 57th street, is in the Chicago hospital with a bullet wound in his left thigh as the result of an altercation yesterday afternoon with Philip Blennert, divorced husband of O'Neill's present wife.

Two years ago the Blennerts were divorced, and she was given permission to visit her two children weekly. Yesterday when she called at the Blennert home to see them, she was refused entrance by her former husband, who pushed her down the steps, she declared.

Mrs. O'Neill went home and returned with O'Neill, who demanded that she be allowed to see the children. It is charged that Blennert drew a revolver and fired, wounding the chauffeur, whose condition is not serious. Blennert is held at the Hyde Park station.

Strict Discipline.

Opposition has developed against

Gen. Summerall because of his reputation in some quarters as a martinet and his record as one of the hardest task masters

Some officers in the air corps are inclined to feel that because of his quarrel with William

Mitchell, former assistant air chief, Gen. Summerall might not be as friendly to the air service as they would like. Other air officers, however, prefer him to

MEXICAN FIGHT GOES TO FINISH —BISHOP DIAZ

Denies Catholics and Calles Make Peace.

neither can we and if the fight must go on, then we are ready to continue."

Then Papal Interference.

President Calles objected vigorously to interference by the Vatican in the internal affairs of Mexico, saying:

"What right has an outsider to butt into our business?"

"The pope and church are concerned only with the conscience of the people and the government of the internal affairs of the Christian organization," said Magr. Diaz.

"Now you are getting into philosophy," said Calles.

Then the interview broke up.

To the question, "Do you want this campaign stopped across the Rio Grande?" Magr. Diaz answered:

"Not at all. We want it kept up. There still is much to accomplish."

Mexicans See Peace Hopes.

Despite Bishop Diaz's statement the fourth churchless Sunday found interest in the religious struggle and economic boycott unabated. The new factor that was inserted into the equation yesterday was when President Calles received and talked amicably with two of the most prominent and most noted fighting leaders of Catholicism in Mexico, Magr. Diaz and Archbishop Ruiz.

The fact that President Calles received the bishops was taken to mean that the chief executive is willing to find a way out of the deadlock.

The opinion was generally expressed that President Calles has won a technical victory, while the church has made substantial progress toward reaching a settlement through an agreement with the government. The admission of the president that the government did not want to assume authority over the church discipline in ordering the registration of the priests has given the church a loophole through which it can order the restoration of worship in the 20,000 churches and chapels of Mexico.

Business Men Work for Peace.

In the meantime the Catholics' economic boycott is proving more heavily from day to day on all kinds of business and national activities and the merchants and business men generally are anxious to see the boycott lifted.

Therefore, several commercial and business organizations have approached the episcopate, offering their good offices with the government to secure the lifting of the boycott by concessions to the church.

The Spanish and Mexican national chambers of commerce are interesting themselves in the removal of the boycott and are bringing great pressure to bear on both the president and the church leaders.

Here's Episcopate Statement.

Mexico City, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Mexican episcopate hopes to resume services soon in the Catholic churches, says a formal statement issued by the episcopate after the conference with President Calles last night.

"The interview with the president," says the statement, "was truly satisfactory. The different phases of the religious situation were made clear by the exchange of impressions. The episcopate's purpose to make use of all legal resources for attaining constitutional amendment of the articles and precepts which affect our creed was reiterated."

"The president told us that he had already declared through the press that the registration demands of priests in charge of the churches had no other purpose than those purely administrative and that the government had no intentions of mixing in matters relating to dogma or religion."

"With this statement we expect that, once the procedures demand of us through the church are fulfilled, there will be no obstacles to the resumption of religious services in the churches, while we attain our ultimate end of recovering liberty, which we considered injured through the various legal precepts."

Shelved Home; Silent on Mexico.

New York, Aug. 22.—(Special.)—James Rockwell Sheffield, United States ambassador to Mexico, arrived today on the steamship Monterey, accompanied by Mrs. Sheffield and their son, Frederick, who is a student at Yale university.

"It is my annual sixty days' leave," he said, "which I planned three months ago and have been looking forward to ever since. On Tuesday I am going to Washington to report to the state department and then probably will be visited by President Coolidge to pay him a visit and tell him about the Mexican situation."

Ambassador Sheffield said that he could not discuss Mexican affairs in any way under the present circumstances.

Denies H. of C. Asks Intervention.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Knights of Columbus are not demanding governmental intervention by the United States in Mexico as a result of the church controversy in that country, Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty announced today in a statement given out at the Knights of Columbus home office here.

"The Knights of Columbus," he said, "believe that the situation [in Mexico] should be brought forcibly to the attention of the American people and our government, and a vigorous protest made against its continuance. We do not undertake to determine what steps should be taken by our government to remedy this situation," he said.

CARELESS YANKS
HELD FOR FIRING
FRENCH FOREST

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, Aug. 22.—Two Americans, whose names were not divulged, are being held by the police of a small village near St. Marlo for setting fire to a forest which threatened the whole village.

The Americans, who were picnicking in the forest, carelessly left burning a spirit lamp, which they had lighted to make tea while they went for a walk. On returning to see if the kettle was boiling, they found the wind had blown over the lamp and kettle, and set the dry grass of the forest blazing.

The church bells rang out the alarm and the entire village had to work for hours digging a ditch to save the fire from spreading to the village. The inhabitants managed to save the village, but stated the damage done to the forest and crops was enormous.

$500 REWARD

For Convincing Proof as to Who Was the Author of

The Yarn of a Yankee Privateer

Edited by Nathaniel Hawthorne in 1846

Up to the present no one, not even the publishers, has been able to discover who was the author of this personal record of the War of 1812, which describes privatering and privatering men as they really were; which presents thrilling hand-to-hand fights on land and sea, of prison life at Dartmouth, England. The literary world has praised it unreservedly—but who wrote the book? It is to find this out, if possible, that the publishers are offering a reward of $500 for proof that will convince a jury comprising Brander Matthews, William Lyon Phelps and Stuart Sherman as to the authorship. All proofs must be submitted by mail to the publishers on or before January 1, 1927. As much as is known of the history and discovery of the manuscript is given in the preface of the book by Clifford Smith; also in a descriptive circular which will be sent free upon application.

ASK COOLIDGE TO COME TO RESCUE OF WADSWORTH

New York Senator Being Trodden by Camel.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Paul Smith, N. Y., Aug. 22.—(Special.)—President Coolidge is interested in a political battle in this state, the outcome of which not only will be of the greatest importance to the administration and his party in the determination of control of the next congress but will throw a long shadow over the 1928 struggle for the presidency.

The Republican party in this state is now split wide open on the prohibition question and the Democrats find themselves presented with a gilt-edged opportunity to elect a United States senator in November to succeed Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr. (Rep.). Now, if this Republican split should result in Democratic victory in New York, the wet eastern wing of the Democratic party would gain enormous prestige throughout the country and the movement for the nomination of Al Smith or some other wet for President in 1928 will receive fresh impetus.

Seen as Golden Opportunity.
The theory of the wet Jeffersonians is that the Republican party in Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, and several other states can be disrupted whenever prohibition shall be the paramount issue. They figure that the dry south would not desert a Democratic candidate, wet as he might be.

The reaction against the rigors of Volsteadism has been playing into the hands of the Democrats in New York from the start. There is to be a referendum in the November election on the question of amending the Volstead act. Now, this is Democratic doctrine in New York. It gained such favor that the Republicans took refuge in support of it.

Anti-Saloon League in Race.

The popular reaction against Volsteadism also caused Senator Wadsworth to go violently wet in opening his campaign for renomination. Thereupon the Anti-Saloon League, the W. C. T. U., and other organizations of drys brought forward former State Senator Franklin W. Cristman as a Republican candidate for senator. Inasmuch as Wadsworth will control the state convention, his renomination is a certainty, but Cristman will be come an independent dry candidate, making it a three cornered race.

The only remaining factor to be determined is the Democratic nomination. Wadsworth is popular with Tammany and the wet Democrats generally and if the Democrats should nominate a weak candidate he would not need to be greatly worried by the dry bolt to Cristman.

But Wadsworth's old friend, Al Smith, and other old Tammany pals are now acting far from clubby. They are squaring away to nominate Supreme Court Justice Roert Wagner for senator. Justice Wagner is a man of great ability and exceedingly popular. Efforts are now being made to stem the dry defection by nominating a dry or moderately wet Republican for governor. Since Al Smith made it known he would run for another term most of the Republican aspirants for this office have taken to the woods. So Republican State Chairman Morris and New York County Chairman Koenig are coming to get the President's advice on how to save the party from defeat.

Says Wadsworth Has "Trimmed."

New York, Aug. 22.—(Special.)—In a statement, understood to have been prepared after consultation with Senator Wadsworth, and believed to forecast the platform to be adopted by the Republican state convention, George

K. Morris, Republican state chairman, declared today that prohibition was not an issue in the state campaign, and called upon Republican voters to await the result of the prohibition referendum and not permit themselves to be divided on this question.

Senator Wadsworth was a wet before he visited President Coolidge at White Pine camp, Rep. Lewis M. Black Jr. (Dem.) declared today in commenting upon Senator Wadsworth's assertion that the Republican nominee for governor would be "moderate."

"Since discussing the political situation in this state with the President, Wadsworth has trimmed," Mr. Black continued.

"Drawn Out of the Wet."
"This was expected. The Anti-Saloon league has forced Cal to go fishing and Wadsworth has been hooked and drawn out of the wet sea. Wadsworth, a good party man, is back in step with his party, which is aligned with the drys."

"A party should not be judged by its professions but by its record. All but two or three Republican congressmen in New York are dry. All but two or three Republican state legislators in New York are dry; therefore, Wadsworth must in the last analysis be with them."

"A few weeks ago Wadsworth wanted prohibition to be the great issue of the campaign."

What Manufacturing Advantage Have You?

It is becoming increasingly evident that few manufacturers can depend on production advantages alone for profits. Raw material prices, labor costs and factory processes are too nearly standard. Profits are coming more and more through maintained quality, and merchandising skill which involves winning the public.

Advertising has won its permanent place in merchandising because of what it contributes to simplified selling, controllable sales cost and finally to earnings.

The supreme fact about advertising is that the generalship behind it determines the value of the dollars spent for space. Hence the services of an organization like this, which outstandingly knows merchandising, become of self-evident value.

TROTSKY, STALLIN FORCING RUSSIA INTO DEMOCRACY

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, Aug. 22.—Joseph Stalin and Leon Trotsky are emerging victors from their battle for control of Russia. The Tribune learns from reports on Soviet affairs that the communists recognize that this victory is proof that the bolshevik counter-revolution is a more democratic state, willing to make the necessary sacrifices to win back the confidence of the world powers.

are in full control of the political as well as the economic situation, according to British, German, Polish, and French official and unofficial representatives, and unofficial American observers in Russia.

Dicker with Britain, France.

The Soviet leaders now are able to concentrate their efforts on negotiations with England and France, in the course of which they intend to recognize their pre-war debts and to obtain a compromise granting them a tremendous reduction on the sum and interest to be paid with funds Russia now is using for communistic propaganda.

Negotiations already are being carried on with Prague and London.

In exchange for reduction of its debt to the allies, Russia is prepared to discard its obnoxious foreign trade monopoly. The government asserts that the 29 year old M. Mikojan, successor to M. Kamenoff, will be the last dictator for trade in Russia, and that his mission is to prepare laws guaranteeing greater freedom for Commerce and Industry in Russia, as requested by the allies.

One of the first consequences of the new trade policy is Russia's establishment of official trade delegations in European capitals. In Berlin, alone, the trade delegation has discharged 150 members, who are being replaced with men supporting either M. Trotsky or M. Stalin. The Trotsky communists have been kept away from the Soviet delegations for the last three years.

Through the withdrawal of M. Kamenoff from the commissariat of trade, M. Trotsky has assumed greater power, which explains in part the change in Russia's policy.

These changes were accompanied by great restlessness throughout Russia.

Rivals, Shelve Battle.

To prevent an upheaval, M. Trotsky and M. Stalin, who fundamentally are rivals, worked out a common political program, shelving their battle of personal rivalry until a more auspicious time. They intend to submit a comprehensive program to the communistic party congress, which will be called in the middle of September, when communists who favor abolition of the so-called "war communism," which is Russia's euphemistic term for terrorism, are expected to force their more democratic views, including payment of Russia's debts.

"I have the word of Moscow that 600 delegates will be commanded at the forthcoming conference," Jacob Dadian, a prominent communist leader until last week, when he resigned from the party, told The Tribune.

Liberals Sure of Victory.

"At last year's meeting the more liberal elements among the communists had only 300 representatives, but at this year's we expect to have 400 out of 600, and thus we will win our victory, despite the renewed activities of the supporters of war communism to increase their power. We expect the party congress to root them out."

Besides the question of our debt to the European nations, one of the most important points of the agenda of the party congress will be the question of headquarters of the communist international. My group will demand that the Headquarters of the international be removed from Russia to Germany. We believe the komintern propaganda abroad will harm the reputation of our country.

The question as to whether the German communists are willing to support the third international in its immigration to Germany is of no importance, because all leading German communists, as well as those of other nations, must obey orders from Moscow, which is subsidizing them.

Ordinary Bribes.

"Moscow subsidies cannot be distinguished from ordinary bribes."

One of the principal Russian democratic leaders is tired of the bolshevik system as it has been applied for the last year. He denounces the Moscow rule with impunity, because men in power who threaten to deport him or sentence him to death never dare actually to touch him. His backers are too strong to permit Moscow to arrest their leader.

The breakdown of the German communist party is greeted with extreme satisfaction by men who are working with Russia for a compromise on the debt question of England, France, and America. They believe this failure will strengthen the position of Russia.

Portugal Sends Cruisers to Guard Rights in China

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 22.—Having received information that the Canton government aided the Chinese strikers in the most recent attack on the Portuguese town of Macao, the Lisbon government has sent two cruisers, the Admiral and the Republica, to maintain order and defend Portuguese rights in China.

8 ROBBERS CRACK SIX SAFES; GET $25,000 IN GOLD

Three Wahl Pen Employees Bound by Cracksmen.

(Picture on back page.) Armed with guns and dynamite, eight masked bandits early yesterday entered the offices of the Wahl Pen company, 1509 Roscoe street, bound and gagged three night employees, blew half a dozen safes and escaped five hours later with loot amounting to $25,000 in gold and gold pen points.

Cracksmen Work on Safes. While four of the men, evidently experienced cracksmen, methodically sought out one safe after another, the other four, their revolvers drawn, rounded up Gustave Block, 2454 North Mount street, a watchman, and Ray Laurie, 4434 Clifton avenue, a fireman. Later they found Charles Kane, 1516 School street, a janitor, and bound the three together.

It was not until 15 minutes after the eight had escaped in an automobile that the captive men were able to notify the Robey police and C. J. Frechette, 1121 Loyola avenue, a fireman. According to Mr. Frechette, the thugs missed $10,000 worth of gold alloy in one of the safes they could not open.

Laundry Owner Robbed. When Fred Huth, owner of the G and H Wet Wash laundry company at 6615 South State street, opened his door yesterday he was greeted by three masked men with guns, who forced him to open his safe where they found $150 in cash. After tying Huth to a steam pipe and gagging him, the men escaped.

KILLED BY BLOW IN FIGHT. John Bartholomew, 50, of 1053 Addison street, died yesterday in the County hospital from a skull fracture incurred Saturday night when Harry Campbell of Alton knocked him to the sidewalk following a drinking party at the home of Thomas Willet at 1705 Maple avenue.

WILBUR WARNS U. S. OF MANY DANGERS TO NATION WITH FEW SHIPS

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—(Special.)—In a letter inviting the public to inspect the establishment of "Navy Day" which is to be observed on Oct. 27, Secretary Wilbur today called attention to the importance of the fight now being made by the navy and Navy League of the United States for an adequate merchant marine. Secretary Wilbur praised the Navy League and asserted it was carrying to the nation "the importance of the future development of our country of an adequate merchant marine that will assure economic independence, as well as form a vital element of national defense; and that the navy as the first line of defense is a form of national insurance which protects the merchant marine and our rapidly expanding commerce."

In stressing the need of a better merchant marine, the Navy League, which states it has the support of the president, points out that only 20 per cent of last year's foreign trade was carried in American bottoms.

FOUND GUILTY OF SLAYING PASTOR, CHOIR LEADER

Morgantown, Ky., Aug. 22.—(AP)—After deliberating seventeen and a half hours the jury in the case of Delbert Gary, 27, charged with slaying the Rev. A. W. Moss of Pennsylvania, and his choir leader, Mrs. Jerome Johnson, at Gary school house, Aug. 2, returned a verdict of guilty this afternoon and fixed the punishment at life imprisonment.

Gary, characterized by the state attorneys as the "tiger man," is the first of three men indicted for the slaying as they led the congregation in singing a hymn to face trial. Clinton Wilson, 21, and Strudie Gary, a brother of Delbert, will probably not be tried until the December term of court, it was announced today.

The slaying, which was alleged to have resulted from the evangelist's crusade against moonshining liquor, stirred this section of Kentucky as no other killing had for many years.

REMUS' DAUGHTER HOPES TO SAVE HIM FROM EXILE

Certain Her Grandfather Was Made Citizen.

Hope that George Remus, the "Millionaire Bootleg King," will be able to prove his American citizenship and escape being deported to Germany was advanced yesterday by his daughter, Miss Romola Remus, in her apartment at 3882 Pine Grove avenue.

"There are records on file somewhere which show that my grandfather, Frank Remus, took out his naturalization papers," Miss Remus declared, "but we have not been able to find them."

Neighbors in the vicinity of Cortland and Fairfield avenues, where Frank Remus lived from 1880 to 1890, have been found who assert that they saw Mr. Remus take out naturalization papers about 1882, Miss Remus said.

Among these is a John T. Nehring, who, she hopes, will be allowed to testify that he saw such papers.

Miss Remus, who is 21 years old and the daughter of Remus by his first marriage, had just returned from a visit to her father in jail at Troy, O., where they discussed the possibility of his deportation.

Names Second Wife. "Daddy takes the whole affair lightly," she said. "He is convinced that his second wife, whom he married in 1920, has been instrumental in bringing about the deportation proceedings through a government official who is friendly to her."

Should Remus be deported, his daughter says she will go with him wherever he is sent. Her mother, the first Mrs. Remus, has married again and lives in Chicago. Remus, according to his daughter, expects to win a suit to divorce the present Mrs. Remus and another to nullify his adoption of her daughter, Ruth Holmes, whom he made his heir.

OVER FOUR SCORE, APART FOR 50 YEARS, FIGHT ABOUT DIVORCE

Sensational, Miss. Aug. 21.—(AP)—Declaratory of charges of desertion, alleged in her husband's suit for divorce on that ground, was contained in an answer filed yesterday by attorneys for Mrs. Emma J. Wolf, 54.

Mr. Wolf, also above the four score mark, filed suit some weeks ago, alleging that Mrs. Wolf had deserted him in Kentucky, where he took his wife as a bride shortly after the war between the states. Mr. Wolf's petition stated they have not lived together in more than fifty years and that he is the father of two sons whom he has not seen in that time.

In her answer Mrs. Wolf charges her husband with desertion. The divorce petition was the result of differences over pensions.

Neither is able to attend court because of infirmities.

1920, has been instrumental in bringing about the deportation proceedings through a government official who is friendly to her."

EUROPE SEES U. S. AS NEW ECONOMIC BOSS OF WORLD

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Dr. Morris J. Bonn of Berlin, noted European economist who accompanied the German peace delegation to Versailles as a financial adviser, declared today that a large section of European opinion felt that the United States was sweeping irresistibly towards an economic lordship of the world.

Prof. Bonn, who is attending the Institute of Politics, deplored the exaggerated views held by many Europeans against the United States, but felt it his duty to point out that this country was regarded with suspicion, because it was the world's creditor and because apparently its policy aiming at complete economic self-sufficiency may lead to war, provoked by a revolt of the debtor nations.

Pointing out that many people in Europe were suspicious of the United States for advocating military disarmament while striving for economic predominance against future conflicts, Dr. Bonn explained that Europe was seeking itself why the United States, the strongest nation in the world economically, did not trust itself to weather any storm that might arise. Nations less favorably situated, he said, naturally felt more vulnerable and would have to adopt policies similar to those of the United States.

New Dry Squad Begins

Effort to Mop Big Liquor

New York, Aug. 21.—(Special.)—The forty customs inspectors sworn in as prohibition agents Saturday, to form a squad to eliminate liquor smuggling on ocean liners, will begin work tomorrow morning, operating from the converted auxiliary schooner U. S. C. 417. The smuggling of liquor on board liners in regular service, while not regarded by prohibition authorities as one of the major sources of supply, has nevertheless proved one of the most difficult methods of running liquor to combat.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The official market committee in Paris today announced that the poultry section of the market today to about thirty chickens, and that the market officials say, however the experiment promises to be successful. The official market committee is expected to inform the public what provisions have arrived, quantity, and the quality. It is notified that all quantities of meat will be offered for sale. The effect hoped for is to supply the old habit of storing all meat sold to wholesalers, as was the market and affected.

Women Wave Umbrella
The women made a few to test the new regulations. The dealer rushed to the point while the women were to get one of the few chickens and cried out, "I will take it."

"You will, will you?" she asked. And this was enough. The women rushed to the dealer's stand and bought one. More is expected in other from these market reforms. The new broad regulations, under Parisian housewives by buying at the central market never be huge, but the little they will, it is expected, have influence in all the cities, down prices in Paris and elsewhere.

Save 30 Per Cent.
The buying of fruit at the market saved about 30 per cent compared with the street and other. When the women of Paris are posted as to these, they may be counted on to influence of this is felt by all. The regulations tending to the new broad regulations, under Parisian housewives by buying at the central market never be huge, but the little they will, it is expected, have influence in all the cities, down prices in Paris and elsewhere.

Every one agrees, however, the measures proposed by the market will be useful in helping the consumers and appetites of the dealers.

WOMEN SWING PARASOLS; RULE PARIS MARKET

Drive Off Dealer Seeking "Corner" on Fowls.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The first of the new regulations in France's new war market for poultry today brought a sharp rise in the price of fowls. The movement of this crop was featured by extraordinary conditions, according to officials of the car service division of the American Railway association.

From 20 to 30 per cent of the grain in the heavy production territory was harvested with "combines" machines, which cut and thresh in one operation, greatly expediting the delivery of grain to the railroads, said L. M. Betts.

The two railroads chiefly serving this district—Santa Fe and Rock Island—for the period June 16 to July 21—succeeded in their previous high record of grain loading for the same time by 84 and 57 per cent, respectively.

Mr. Betts said the southwestern railroads had the largest number of cars in storage at the beginning of the season ever on record, and "could hardly have operated their trains through this wheat territory with many more cars on their tracks."

When the Spanish discovered this country four centuries ago it was here that Magellan first landed. The territory then was occupied by a pagan tribe of Manobos, but the natives gradually were crowded back into the mountains by the influx of Visayans, who built cities on the coast. There are few Moros in this section, and the propaganda mostly concerns the Manobos.

A conflict of stories arises when political leaders, urging the need for independence, describe the inhabitants as peaceful and almost completely civilized, being gradually absorbed by the former Visayans, while the secret opposition tells of the terrible mistreatment of the mountain people by the later comers, now in power.

Typical of the yarns run the story of the deputy governor of the province of Agusan, who is said to have taken prisoner 100 Manobos, brought them shackled to the city of Butuan, and forced them into peonage contracts by scratching their arms to draw blood, with which finger prints were taken for a blood compact. The opposite version is that 100 hillmen voluntarily made a compact, scratching their own arms, which was a trifle to them, in a scheme to battle the plantation owner. Both stories agree that the Manobos disappeared.

Find Natives in Jail. Another incident was the discovery of a number of Manobos held in the provincial jail for six months on charges of vagrancy. The governor, curator, and their supporters contended that this was merely enforcement of an executive order issued by the departments of Mindanao and Sulu, which was replaced in 1919 by provincial laws, and was necessary because the quarter was filled with roaming thieves. Political opponents whispered it was only revenge on the tribesmen for their broken contract with the deputy governor.

Col. George Langhorne of Governor General Leonard Wood's staff, who is accompanying the party and who frequently produces evidence of the unpreparedness for independence, was indignant at the enforcement of the old executive order prohibiting Manobos from leaving without permission and wired the governor general for par-

RAILROADS SET NEW RECORD FOR MOVING NATION'S GRAIN CROP

There are few Moros in this section, and the propaganda mostly concerns the Manobos.

A conflict of stories arises when political leaders, urging the need for independence, describe the inhabitants as peaceful and almost completely civilized, being gradually absorbed by the former Visayans, while the secret opposition tells of the terrible mistreatment of the mountain people by the later comers, now in power.

Typical of the yarns run the story of the deputy governor of the province of Agusan, who is said to have taken prisoner 100 Manobos, brought them shackled to the city of Butuan, and forced them into peonage contracts by scratching their arms to draw blood, with which finger prints were taken for a blood compact. The opposite version is that 100 hillmen voluntarily made a compact, scratching their own arms, which was a trifle to them, in a scheme to battle the plantation owner. Both stories agree that the Manobos disappeared.

Find Natives in Jail. Another incident was the discovery of a number of Manobos held in the provincial jail for six months on charges of vagrancy. The governor, curator, and their supporters contended that this was merely enforcement of an executive order issued by the departments of Mindanao and Sulu, which was replaced in 1919 by provincial laws, and was necessary because the quarter was filled with roaming thieves. Political opponents whispered it was only revenge on the tribesmen for their broken contract with the deputy governor.

Col. George Langhorne of Governor General Leonard Wood's staff, who is accompanying the party and who frequently produces evidence of the unpreparedness for independence, was indignant at the enforcement of the old executive order prohibiting Manobos from leaving without permission and wired the governor general for par-

CAGAYAN, Mindanao, P. I., Aug. 22.—The warning that when he reached the so-called Moro country he would be greeted with the worst flood of propaganda to be met with anywhere in the Philippine islands was recalled during the visit of Col. Opposition Tells of Cruelty. When the Spanish discovered this country four centuries ago it was here that Magellan first landed. The territory then was occupied by a pagan tribe of Manobos, but the natives gradually were crowded back into the mountains by the influx of Visayans, who built cities on the coast. There are few Moros in this section, and the propaganda mostly concerns the Manobos.

IRISH CENSUS SETS POPULATION AT 4,229,124

BY HUGH CURRAN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

DUBLIN, Aug. 22.—The census figures just published by the Irish Free State show the population is 4,229,124, as compared with 3,159,488 in 1911. The increase is 1,069,636. The northern Ireland census shows a population of 1,154,322, making the total for all Ireland 4,229,124. The population in Ulster is increased over the 1911 figures for the territory.

54,000 Killed in War.
While the returns are disappointing, the report gives several natural causes, including the fact that the British troops have been withdrawn, with their dependents, amounting for 14,000. Those killed in the war, numbering more than 14,000, and the many officers and men who settled abroad after the war, account for an almost equal additional number. More than 8,000 members of the Irish constabulary, which has been disbanded, have left the country.

Commenting on emigration, the report says that in 1921 there were 1,217,457 native born Irishmen living in foreign countries, which is 45 per cent of Ireland's population. Of these, 1,037,234 are in the United States.

Maximum in 1941.
The population of Ireland reached its maximum in 1941 when more than 8,000,000 persons were registered in the census. Each decade since then has shown a decrease. The birth rate now is 21 per 1,000. It is believed the restriction of the emigration quota to the United States will help to arrest the decrease.

KILLED BY FALL ON STAIRS.
Edward O'Leary, 50 years old, 811 South State street, died at the County hospital yesterday of a fractured skull, suffered on July 22, when he fell down a flight of stairs.

DIVIDED FORCES IN MELLETT CASE PLAN BUSY WEEK

Canton, O., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Two distinct battles are imminent in the war on vice and politics in Canton, which was precipitated by the murder of Don R. Mellett, crossing publisher, on July 16—a murder which investigators assert they are now well on the way to solving.

A drive to break down the alibi of Louis Maper, the only man thus far formally charged with the murder, is contemplated this week.

Tomorrow, it is expected, the establishment of a new civil service commission will be sought, preparatory to reconstructing the Canton police department. Controversy over the prosecution of the murder case is expected to result this week in the appointment of either a special prosecutor or an aide to C. R. McClintock, Stark county prosecutor.

Joseph H. Roach, Chicago lawyer, who is investigating both the murder and liquor conspiracy inquiries, insists that a "competent prosecutor" be put in charge of the murder evidence.

R. Wain's McDermott.
Port Wayne, Ind., Aug. 22.—(AP)—A man arrested here yesterday because he resembled Patrick H. McDermott, wanted in Canton, O., in the Mellett murder investigation, is not McDermott, it was definitely announced today.

ENJO uncrowded September Days in Europe

SEPTEMBER is an excellent time to see Europe. The rush and hurry of summer have passed.

There is a wider choice of accommodations in hotels, rates are considerably lower and conditions are perfect for travelling. Added to this, too, as experienced travelers know, in making a trip via Cunard.

The new Cunard Service to Plymouth and London provides unusually attractive visiting Europe at a reduced cost. Three and four week expense tours to London have been arranged as little as $222.50, respectively, the round trip Atlantic crossing in the new comfortable Tourist class.

Splendid Cabin accommodations also available on these ships from New York. The Cunard Company carries tourists in the new Tourist class in section—no third class carried on ships from the beginning of the season to the end.

The only service of its kind on the Atlantic.

THE GUMPS—AT THE BARRIER

Prizga smacked a hot one at McGowan and it corned off his shin. McGowan scored and McWeeny, who was on his knees, finally ob- tained the ball resting a few feet from him. He picked it up and threw it into the hands of the plate, but his throw was poor and it went into the hands of the pitcher, permitting Wilson to run home and score the third run.

What Studebaker, Chrysler, Nash, Hupmobile, Pierce-Arrow and Willys-Overland did to get millions more out of The Chicago Territory.

SPACE buyers, in analyzing newspaper circulation, usually inquire about automobile lineage. This practice has led some newspapers to cut their automobile rates and to offer columns of free publicity. The Chicago Tribune never has followed either of these practices. And it prints more than double the automobile lineage of any other Chicago newspapers. Proven results in increased sales and profits are the real test of an advertising medium. The following six automobile manufacturers have told the story of their experiences in using The Chicago Tribune to build business in this territory.

STUDEBAKER receives an order for 1,270 cars valued at $1,806,000

STUDEBAKER has always been noted as a newspaper advertiser. It has kept its schedules going, year in and year out, in from 1,000 to 2,000 newspapers.

Success has rewarded the confident reliance of Studebaker on this powerful sales-building agent. Sales have grown steadily. Hundreds of other makes have gone out of existence while Studebaker has flourished.

When Studebaker completed new plants which made this automobile a "one-profit" car built entirely by Studebaker, it decided to tell the story with full pages in metropolitan newspapers. Ten full pages were carried in The Chicago Tribune. Every week there was a page or more in The Tribune.

In two summer months, sales of the Chicago Studebaker distributor increased $1,126,000 over the same period of the previous year.

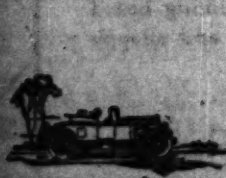

"The effect of the page advertisements in The Chicago Tribune has been amazing," said Henry R. Levy, Chicago distributor. "At a period of the year when our summer slump should have begun, our salesrooms were filled with buyers."

"They were familiar with the arguments and facts presented in these Tribune pages. The big space had attracted them and impressed them as no small copy could have done. They had read and studied the ads. Then they came in to see the cars half sold when they entered the salesroom."

Studebaker continued to use big space in The Chicago Tribune. One result of this advertising was the largest order for cars Studebaker ever received. The Studebaker Sales Company in Chicago placed an order for 1,270 cars, valued at $1,806,000, for delivery during January and February of this year, after Studebaker had used 104,031 lines in The Chicago Tribune—the largest amount ever used in one year in The Tribune by any automotive dealer.

CHRYSLER Chicago sales increase from $4,408,501 to $11,157,756

CHRYSLER sales in the Chicago district jumped nearly $6,750,000 last year. This is a gain of 153% in sales. It came when Chrysler decided to use larger space and more lineage in The Chicago Tribune. The increase in Tribune lineage was 46%.

R. H. Collins, Chicago distributor of Chrysler cars, said: "The gross sales in our territory (60 counties in Illinois) totaled $4,408,501.12 in 1924. In 1925 they were $11,157,756.13—a gain of $6,749,255.01.

These figures certainly speak volumes for the tremendous power of The Tribune as an advertising medium for motor cars, particularly when larger copy in your Sunday edition is regularly used.

"The results obtained from our advertising campaign in The Tribune during the last half of 1925 were so satisfactory that we greatly increased our lineage in your paper in 1926. We find the increased expenditure fully justified by the results obtained."

Note well the figures! More than eleven millions in sales for one car line only 60 of the 102 Illinois counties. The selling influence of The Tribune in Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin is not included in these figures.

NASH sales in Chicago jump from 1,812 cars costing $2,544,682 to 3,810 cars costing $5,115,868

NASH has advertised consistently in The Chicago Tribune. From 1918, the first full year of Nash production, through 1923, the 600% increase in Chicago Tribune advertising was accompanied by a 900% increase in Cook county sales.

In 1924 and 1925, Nash used more space in The Chicago Tribune than in the 5 other Chicago newspapers combined. Following is the Nash record for Cook county (Chicago) during the last three years:

NASH ADVERTISING IN TRIBUNE	CARS SOLD	AMOUNT OF SALES
1923 . . . . . 51,926 lines	1,812	$2,544,682
1924 . . . . . 56,205 lines	2,388	3,405,240
1925 . . . . . 76,209 lines	3,810	5,115,868

This is the record of Nash in Cook county alone. In 1151 towns of The Chicago Territory, The Chicago Sunday Tribune reaches an average of 60% of all the families.

HUPMOBILE sells $1,000,000 worth of cars and increases sales 123% in light months

NOVEMBER and December are light months in the automobile business. Hupmobile decided to increase its advertising during these months to eliminate a seasonal slump. Full pages were used in The Chicago Tribune.

Results were immediate. The increase over the same two months of the previous year was 123%. Note the increase in business done by the Chicago distributor:

Nov. 1924 . . . . . $191,654	Dec. 1924 . . . . . $296,164
Nov. 1925 . . . . . 488,264	Dec. 1925 . . . . . 603,605
Increases . . . . . $296,610	Increases . . . . . $307,441
Total Nov. and Dec., 1924 . . . . . $487,819
Total Nov. and Dec., 1925 . . . . . 1,091,869
Increases . . . . . $604,050
Percentage of Increase . . . . . 123%

Said C. E. Gambill, Chicago distributor of Hupmobile: "We attribute this large gain in sales to the fact that we took more adequate means of displaying the solid merits of the Hupmobile to the public through larger sized ads in The Chicago Tribune. During November and December we ran five full pages in The Tribune, changing our advertising policy from comparatively small space to large, dominant full page smashes."

Hupmobile progress continued with a gain of 51% in sales in the first quarter of 1926 over 1925. Sales in the Chicago district jumped from $1,172,954 to $1,779,178, an increase in volume of more than $600,000.

Hupmobile found a way to eliminate seasonal slumps. Advertising in The Chicago Tribune did it in The Chicago Territory.

Sales of PIERCE-ARROW cars in Cook county jump 152%

WHEN Pierce-Arrow buys Chicago Tribune space, the message is intended to reach the greatest number of men in the $5,000 a year class. So powerful is the selling influence of The Chicago Tribune that Pierce-Arrow has found it to be the greatest sales-producing agency it has ever used in The Chicago Territory.

Pierce-Arrow used other papers as well as The Tribune, in 1924, and sold a goodly number of cars in Cook county. About the middle of 1925 Pierce-Arrow decided to use The Chicago Tribune more extensively.

Sales of Pierce-Arrow cars in Cook county for 1925 jumped 152% over 1924.

"We have ten times as many interested prospects come into our salesroom on the days we advertise in The Tribune as on the days when we do not run advertisements," said A. A. Crumley, Chicago distributor. "Another surprising fact is that we are now servicing 95% of the Pierce-Arrow owners in Cook county whereas a year ago we were servicing less than 50% of those owners."

Mr. Crumley also stated that his salesmen "fight for the job of floorman" on the days Pierce-Arrow advertisements appear in The Tribune.

Pierce-Arrow's success in finding its biggest Chicago market in The Tribune's circulation indicates the possibilities of this same circulation for any manufacturer not now making use of it.

WILLYS-OVERLAND increases its business from $4,447,680 to $10,688,907

FEW manufacturers in automobile history have achieved such success in so short a time as the Willys-Overland company, in The Chicago Territory. In three years, an increase of 158% in the number of cars sold. A growth in dollars and cents of 141%. Dealers increased from 152 to 228.

Willys-Overland made this big growth by concentrating their advertising in The Chicago Tribune and using full pages. In 1924 the Chicago distributor did a business of $6,274,555. Last year the total volume was $10,688,907.

"This concentration of the major portions of Willys-Overland newspaper appropriation for The Chicago Territory in The Tribune," said G. V. Orr, president of the Overland Motor Co. of Chicago, "was decided upon because it was the outstanding choice of the dealers. Actual sales results have proven that The Tribune thoroughly and completely dominates that market."

"To the best of our information, there is no other territory in the country having a newspaper that so signally dominates its territory as is the case with The Tribune."

Space limitations prevent the use of more testimonials from other automobile manufacturers. But does any advertiser want better proof of the ability of The Chicago Tribune to sell merchandise and of the buying power of Tribune circulation?

Are you satisfied with your volume of business in this territory? Are you getting your message properly before The Chicago Tribune circulation of more than 700,000 families daily and more than 1,000,000 Sunday?

Ask a Tribune man to call.

The New York Times.

New York, Aug. 22.—(Special.)—Hedonism, rather more pronounced than has been seen in any time within the last few months, crept into the markets last week.

It was not by any means a note of apprehension, but rather it was the feeling of an upturning which had taken place on an extremely broad scale. It is not at all unusual when prices on the stock exchange have pushed forward to such a point, apparently in discount of good business conditions, for this upturn to suddenly cease until business has actually caught up with prices or until the developments forecast by the market's activity have come to pass.

Cash Profit-taking Sales.

The selling of stocks, which has been of sufficient volume to break the continuity of the trend has not been hurried or violent. It has been mainly for profit taking purposes, and it is also evident that the present high level of industrial shares has attracted considerable selling for the decline.

On the agricultural commodities, too, considerable irregularity has developed because of the fact that the season is not yet far enough advanced so that other than regular commodities are sold about the harvest's final outcome.

The financial news, however, has continued to reflect comfortable conditions in trade and business. The fact that the stock market has slowed down under the pressure of liquidation does not affect the general impression prevailing in business and financial circles that industrial operations are going to be accelerated as the fall season advances.

This already has been forecast by high distribution of goods during the summer and by the satisfactory volume of writers reaching the major industries at this time, in anticipation of autumnal requirements.

Set New Seasonal Record.

Car loadings have established the eleventh consecutive week in which revenue traffic has exceeded the 1925 record. It is interesting to note that this is the first time in the history of the roads that such a record has been established on early in the season. As examination of traffic figures indicates a well diversified movement of freight with singular absence of "low spots" throughout the country.

The money situation, which naturally is of paramount interest to the markets, exhibited slight change during last week. The draft on the New York call market, from which more than $100,000,000 of western funds have been recalled, seems to have lightened.

Rates for the use of money, both time and demand funds, are a little higher and there is very good evidence to be seen that the period of exceptionally easy money is over for the year.

Gold Reserve Increases.

Total bills discounted by the New York bank fell sharply last week, the decline amounting to some $40,000,000, which, however, was offset by an increase in the gold reserve, so that the ratio of reserves to liabilities was as compared with 1925 in the previous week. Curiously enough, the percentage of reserve of both the New York bank and of the system as a whole is within a small fraction of the figure of the same time last year despite the generally heavier demand by business on the resources of the semi-governmental agencies.

Food Prices Are Steadier.

Bradstreet's food index number, composed of prices of 31 articles used for food has remained unchanged for two weeks, but shows a loss of 4.1 per cent for the same weeks of last year. Of the 31 commodities of all kinds quoted, 17 advanced compared with the previous week, 17 declined and 4 remained unchanged. In other words the volume of purchases seems to balance evenly with production.

The shipment by Australia.

$99,000,000 gold to this country which will be deposited in the federal reserve bank of New York, to the credit of the bank of England, furnishes an interesting commentary on the strenuous efforts being made by England to conserve her gold and to draw into her coffers larger metal resources.

In other words, England's colonies.

are being called on to bear the burden of a strain which might seriously affect sterling and bring about the repetition of a situation whereby gold might be lost to this country in good sized quantities.

It was the case last year and in 1924. The demands of England for wheat and cotton and the necessity of payment for these commodities in dollars brings severe pressure on sterling each fall.

Should this gold from Australia be used as required in settling the obligations. It is entirely logical that the pressure against the sterling market may be eliminated.

HOOVER'S IDEAS, PUT TO WORK, BOOST EXPORTS

BY HARPER LEECH.

Interest of Chicago producers, principally manufacturers, in export trade apparently is keeping pace with the growing importance of manufactured articles in our total exports.

T. L. Roberts, district manager of Dr. Klein's bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, tells this writer that in the fiscal year ended June 30 last the Chicago office answered 75,000 queries on the phases of foreign commerce, as against approximately 60,000 for the preceding fiscal year—but the quantitative gain in inquiries is by no means a measure of the actual gain of interest in the district lying within a 250 mile radius of the city.

Paraphrasing this, this writer can testify that an inquiry at that office always nets actual information—sometimes so voluminous as to put the questioner at work for days, unless he frames his inquiry in such a way that it is an accident or the result of a favoritism that in America today writers who delight to belabor bureaucracy cannot expect exception of bureau inclusion from one new under the Hoover regime, in exactly opposite terms.

Hoover seems to have put his whole outfit to such intimate contact with industrial and commercial America that his men have the business attitude. In many respects they are more businesslike, because one phase of "test cases" that still survives in hand-to-hand—are fixed hours of such nature that none of these offices operates as an appendix to a country club.

Private in the main, not an afterthought to a golf course. Rarely indeed is anybody "in conference" a phrase by the way which American business men use to describe their city halls of the early part of the century.

Anyhow, this writer just encountered the phrase as a city hall reporter, vainly endeavoring to find some "open canopies" of government was still a pipe dream.

Answering questions is only a small part of the work of the local bureau, but that part discloses that business men in the district know more than they used to know and on the whole are more efficient. They no longer ask where Chile is located, or if Spanish is the commercial language of Argentina, or about the size of the country.

A typical question is "What competition may we expect in selling our goods in Australia? Should we attempt to merchandise direct to the retail trade or should we try to make a connection with a manufacturer's agent who will sell on consignment?"

Or this one: "How should we pack our goods in order to move our customers as much as possible on customer's applied to products entering his country?"

Answers, of course, American goods are winning abroad, because they are good goods and the price is right, but ten years of education, the helping hand of the bureau and the alertness of American banks in assisting export trade are powerful factors.

$50,000,000 IN GROUP INSURANCE FOR SWIFT COMPANY EMPLOYEES

BY CHARLES BARTON.

No state in the Union has more efficient accident prevention laws than Illinois, declared Robert S. Marx, former Superior court judge of Cincinnati, as he revealed yesterday that plans are being made to seek a compulsory insurance law for the state at the next session of the legislature.

Judge Marx, who is now a Chicago attorney, is known as an authority on forced coverage.

"Illinois laws actually encourage auto mishaps," Judge Marx said. "Any one can register an automobile and secure a license plate. Nothing is required of the applicant except his name, the make of car, and a small amount of money for that purpose. The group insurance fee is in addition to other insurance fees incorporated at present in the license fee."

Under terms of the plan the insurance is offered in amounts from $1,000 to $10,000, dependent upon the salary of the individual insured.

Under the plan, the insured and the group insurance fee are added to the license fee.

LONDON STOCK MARKET IS FIRM; RAILS ARE DULL

(Chicago Tribune Service.)
LONDON, Aug. 22.—The general tone of the market was firm at the opening of last week, in anticipation of an early settlement of the coal dispute, which was expected to follow last week's meeting between the owners and miners. When all efforts fell through entirely on Thursday, much surprise and disappointment was registered, and home rails and certain other industries were adversely affected.

In general, however, the exchange regarded the outcome of this ineffectual meeting in philosophical fashion, although in the first place there was a certain amount of liquidation on the part of second thoughts.

On account of the financial district is inclined to regard the outcome as inevitable, in view of the continual drifting of miners back to work.

Reflecting this feeling, home rails were mainly dull and uninteresting under the influence of the rise in the New York redoubt rate.

In the foreign section, a good deal of business passed in French rails and in rails, which quickly responded to the movement of the franc. Chinese stocks also had a good recovery.

The rubber share market again had a quiet week. There was little selling pressure and barely a public inquiry to keep the price moving.

Some demand from America brought about a slight improvement in commodities, which seemed to impart a firm appearance to the share market.

17 SENATORS TO FACE APPROVAL OR DEFEAT SOON

Conventions and Primaries Crowd September.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—(Special.)—Primaries and conventions remaining in the various states involve seventeen senators whose terms expire next year. All of the terms will be made within the next five weeks and the election campaign will then be on in full swing. Primaries and conventions have thus far been held in about half of the states.

Only one present senator, Gooding (Rep., Idaho), is affected by a nomination contest during the coming week. The Republican state convention in Idaho is scheduled for Tuesday. Senator Gooding's re-nomination is looked for, although he has some opposition and it is not secret that his colleague, Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho), would welcome his defeat.

On Aug. 31 Senator Shortridge (Rep., Cal.) is up for re-nomination in a primary in which his opponent has the backing of Senator Johnson (Rep., Cal.). Senator Smith (Dem., S. C.) will be re-nominated without difficulty on the same day.

Fourteen Decisions in September. Primaries or conventions affecting fourteen senators take place in September, the last on the list being Senator Wadsworth (Rep., N. Y.). The New York Republican convention takes place on Sept. 27.

Five Republican senators have primaries on Sept. 7. These are Senators Laurot (Wis.), Odell (Nev.), Moses (N. H.), Cameron (Ark.), and Butler (Mass.). Senator Laurot has the most formidable opposition, with Governor Blaine of Wisconsin as his opponent. The Georgia primaries, where Senator George (Dem.) is a candidate, are on Sept. 8.

Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah) comes up for re-nomination in a convention on Sept. 10. Senator Blinnham (Rep., Conn.) will be re-nominated by a convention on Sept. 13.

Senator Waller (Rep., Md.), Means (Rep., Colo.), Jones (Rep., Wash.), Dale (Rep., Va.), and Broussard (Dem., La.), have their primaries on Sept. 14. Senator Waller has as his opponent Representative John Philip Hill, well known war leader, now in the house.

Dry Predict Dry Congress. Primaries thus far held, according to a statement issued today by the board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, show that the forthcoming congress will be almost certainly as dry as the present congress. It was asserted that the drys will make no effort to win in referendum votes which can have no effect.

10,436 GAIN IN UNSKILLED LABOR FOR LAST YEAR

New York, Aug. 22.—(Special.)—A net population gain of 10,436 unskilled laborers in the United States was shown in immigration statistics for the fiscal year 1925-26, compiled by the national industrial conference board. During the preceding fiscal year, the first under the present immigration law, there was a net loss of 15,198 unskilled laborers.

The gain in unskilled labor resulted from a total immigration of 43,543 of this class, as against an emigration of 33,107.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: News from the Firing Line

SEEK RELEASE ON BAIL OF PAIR IN HALL-MILLS CASE

New York, Aug. 22.—(Special.)—Henry De La Bruere Carpenter and "Willie" Stevens will seek their liberty on bail tomorrow. They were arrested eleven days ago and accused of the murder of the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills four years ago. Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the slain clergyman, has been out on $15,000 bail on the same charge.

The application for bail will be made at 10 a. m. tomorrow to Chief Justice Gurne of the Supreme court at Newark. Argument that the men should be released pending grand jury disposition of the accusation against them will be made by Robert H. McCarter, former attorney general, who leads the six attorneys for the defense. Senator Simpson will oppose the release of the men. He also will fight any effort to have the hearing a private one in the chamber of the chief justice.

So far as is known Senator Simpson will not make any request to the chief justice that Mrs. Hall's bail be revoked. He will, however, submit the stenographic record of the four day hearing according to Carpenter and Stevens, leaving to the court the question of whether the record justified revocation of bail.

MINERS DEMAND I. C. C. REVERSE FREIGHT RULING

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, yesterday asked the interstate commerce commission to reverse the findings of its examiner, William Diegues, who refused to recommend a readjustment of freight rates on Indiana and Illinois coal that was sought by the coal operators.

Diegues's decision, holding that existing rates are not unfair and that high wages of unskilled miners in Indiana and Illinois fields are responsible for the inability of the coal companies to compete with the nonunion operators of West Virginia and Kentucky, was characterized by Lewis as an "amazing and gratuitous attack on the wages schedules and living standard of union miners."

Rates on coal from Indiana mines, since 1915, Lewis said, have been increased out of proportion to rates from mines in other states.

The miners' chief said the Jacksonville agreement extending the union wage scale to April 1, 1927, has been deemed fair not only by the operators and miners but by the United States bituminous coal commission.

HOLD UP GAMBLING ROOM. Bensenville, Ill., Aug. 22.—(Special.)—Three masked men obtained a gambling room here and robbed the proprietor and about twelve co-operators of $1,800 in cash, a $1,000 diamond ring and other jewelry.

S. P. SHERMAN, LITERARY CRITIC, DIES AFTER SWIM

Exhausted by Effort to Reach Land.

Manitowish, Mich., Aug. 22.—(U.P.)—Smart Francis Sherman, 45, author, literary critic of the New York Herald-Tribune, and formerly head professor of English at the University of Illinois, died here yesterday apparently of heart failure following an exhaustive swim to reach land after his boat overturned in Lake Michigan. His heart failed just as he reached shore. Friends on shore saw him sink and pulled him out of the water as he lay on his back, but attempts to resuscitate him failed.

He had at first been reported Mr. Sherman was drowned. Mrs. Sherman, who was in the boat with her husband, swam safely to shore.

The Sheremans had been regular summer residents here for the past thirteen years. They had intended to return to New York today.

Mr. Sherman's body will be taken to Winchester, Va., his old home, to-morrow. He is survived by the widow and a son, John, 20.

Potawatami Indian Relics Shown at Field Museum

Life of the Potawatami Indians who formerly inhabited the Chicago region is depicted in their bows and arrows, drums, pipes, clothing, medicine bags, and other objects, now on display at the Field Museum.

The collection was made by M. G. Chapman, under an endowment furnished by Julius and Augusta Rosenwald.

It is the largest collection of Potawatami relics ever shown in Chicago.

The collection is on display at the Field Museum, 520 North Dearborn street, from August 23 to September 1.
